JUDY Alderson was interviewed ^{in Anchorage} as part of the Gates of the Arctic jubilee project. Judy works for the Park Service in the Anchorage office, but the subject of the interview was her time as a ranger of Gates of the Arctic back in the early 1980s. She tells about coming to the Park Service and the natural resource issues they identified at the time. She also talks about "Wilderness" and how she

Defines the concept and how the Park Service has interpreted it. There is some mention of the All terrain vehicle use issues the Park Service faces - faces.
