Kodiak Elder's Recording made September 5th & 6th, 1996
Conditions for Release and Use
11/26/96

We, the following members of the Kodiak Elders' Council agree to have the recordings made with us on September 5-6, 1996 available for use by students, scholars, and the interested public. We agree to have the recordings deposited at the Elmer E. Rasmuson Library at the University of Alaska Fairbanks where they will be available to anyone who wishes to review them. The Library has our permission to permit people to check out recordings and the library may make copies when that is requested subject to the following conditions:

- a.) that no portion of the recording be publicly broadcast
- b.) the recording cannot be used for the financial benefit of the user
- c.) the Elmer E. Rasmuson Library agrees to maintain a written record demonstrating by users' signatures that they have read and agreed to these conditions

{These provisions are not meant to prevent researchers from using short quotes from the elders' recordings in their publication and all parties recognize that it is standard procedure for authors to receive modest remuneration from these such efforts. It does preclude extracting extensive parts of the recordings for their publications.}

Further, we reviewed the interactive computer based program (jukebox) that was made based on this recording and we agree to have it available to the public in the following forms:

- A.) Available to the public only in a secured/locked form whose distribution will be determined by the Kodiak Area Native Association. The Kodiak Area Native Association will also be provided with a computer program in form that they can modify to incorporate new material in the future. The Kodiak Area Native Association agrees to uphold the conditions of this agreement.
- B.) The Elmer Rasmuson library has permission to make the secured/locked form available for library users at the library and may show the program in demonstrations outside the library to other groups who may be interested in developing a similar program.
- C.) It is not permitted to be available on the Internet at this time.
- D.) Use of the computer program and it's contents is subject to the same conditions stated in paragraph one of this document.

Modifications to this agreement on use of the computer program may be made by Kodiak Area Native Association in consultation with the Elmer E. Rasmuson Library if and when either party feels it necessary.
